Arrest of John Di Fonti, Charged with Sale of Whiskey which Caused Michael Riley's Death—Mr. and Mrs. John Cisco Secure Bonds of $10,000—News in General

Acting under the belief that Coroner Kingsley caused the arrest of John Cisco and his wife, Catrino Cisco, charging them with murder in causing the death of Daniel Sullivan by selling him whiskey that was composed largely of wood alcohol, and from which he drank and died, the Ciscos were committed to Kingston Jail without bail to await hearing next Friday in the third district court.

It was subsequently ascertained that the charge was intended to be for manufacturing and was consequently bailable. Therefore the Ciscos were summoned from the county jail to the third district court and Judge Williams accepted bonds for their appearance, which were fixed at $5,000 for each. Ten fellow countrymen of the Ciscos acted as sureties, giving satisfactory surety in real estate and personal property, and the accused were released from custody.

Mr. Cisco declares that he did not know Mr. Sullivan, the deceased, and never sold him any liquor, nor did he sell any to Patrick Brady, who is claimed as an important witness at the expense of the state in the Kingston Jail. Mrs. Cisco makes like declaration. Mr. Cisco does not admit that he sold liquor to anyone and says that whatever whiskey he had in his house was purchased in Norwich and was never having made the assertion that he procured whiskey, or any other liquor, at the Rannan drug store, or that he had a still in his house, which is alleged to have been used for the manufacture of wood alcohol.

Broad street end of the street was ten feet higher than the main street and that therefore there would have to be a crown in the street, and the water of the surface water running in both directions. The committee had been in conference with adjoining owners and could come to no definite agreement until it was known just how much the street was to be cut down. It was estimated that the cost of needed changes in the central fire house would be about $15,000. He suggested that a survey be made of the proposed changes and that then the exact cost could be definitely ascertained by the abutting property owners, and they would then be in position to say just what they would agree to do towards the proposed improvement.

If the change is made, James A. Welsh said the present is the time, before he erected buildings in place of those destroyed by fire, to have the actual cost of the proposed change should be ascertained for presentation to the financial town meeting.

Engineer McKenzie was authorized to have a survey, plat and profile of the street showing proposed changes in the street. The motion was unanimously adopted.

The Board of Trade committee is composed of James A. Welsh, W. C. Coy, Dr. John Champlin and Thomas Hope, and all were present at the meeting.

Mrs. Anna Lewis Brown, daughter of the late Capt. Joseph H. and Mrs. Williams Lewis, formerly of Westery, died in Boston Thursday. She leaves a sister, Mrs. William H. Lewis, a brother, William H. Lewis, of East Greenwich.

After hearing the testimony of the plaintiff in the case of Charles E. Northrop against Robert Isadore, who claims for $10,000 in damages were made for injuries received by being struck by an automobile, Judge Lee ordered the jury to return a verdict for the defendant in the superior court at Kingston.

William F. Casey will shortly leave Westery for Providence, where he will reside. About twenty pupils of the Pawcatuck high school called unexpectedly at the home of their schoolmate on Main street to tender him a farewell reception. The surprise was a genuine one, he not being at home when his guests arrived. When he returned after recovering from his astonishment, he proved to be a very able host. In behalf of those present Arthur Fried presented him a handsome stickpin. Games were played and at 12 p. m. the girls and boys left, wishing their classmate success in his future home.
